

Action Research

Topic "Clinical and epidemiological features of viral, bacterial and parasitic infections depending on immunological, genetic and metabolic factors, optimization of diagnostic and therapeutic measures", state registration number - 0121U11571, deadline - 01.22-01.27. Head - Head of the Department of Infectious Diseases and Epidemiology, MD. Sciences, Professor Mykola CHEMYCH.

Implemented training highly qualified specialists through postgraduate study at a distance and without interruption of work by specialty 14.01.13 - infectious diseases.

To graduate on a competitive basis adopted individuals who have higher education and skills or master. At the department adopted person at the time of entry are at least two years work experience after internship doctor, medical profession to match the specialty graduate or have a master's degree of medicine.

The term postgraduate study at a distance from the production - three years on the job - four years.

Applicants for entrance exams, specialty (in the curriculum for specialist or master's degree that meets their chosen specialty, from philosophy and one of foreign languages □□ (English, German and French) in the curriculum for higher education IV level of accreditation approved by the MES.